How to Slow Down a TikTok Video

Every few years, a new app hits the market that completely changes how we interact with social media. TikTok, the video-sharing app, became one of the most popular applications in 2021 because it provides new and creative ways to engage with people on the internet. It's similar to Snapchat and Instagram, except instead of swiping side to side, you navigate between different videos by scrolling up and down, like a feed. TikTok features a plethora of options at your disposal, such as filters, the ability to search for and add music to your video, and the opportunity to interact with other people through response videos or duets, in which users may duplicate recordings and put themselves alongside.

People are increasingly drawn to TikTok because it enables them to create high-quality video content with absolutely fantastic effects. As a TikTok content creator, it's natural for you to want to utilize such effects in your own video.

As a content creator, the TikTok app has been advantageous since it provides a diverse range of unique effects, particularly slow-motion effects that will help you attract many followers.

You can also use FlexClip to make beautiful videos to share on your social media platforms. You don't need professional skills since FlexClip makes it easy to create content that will gain you more likes and followers.

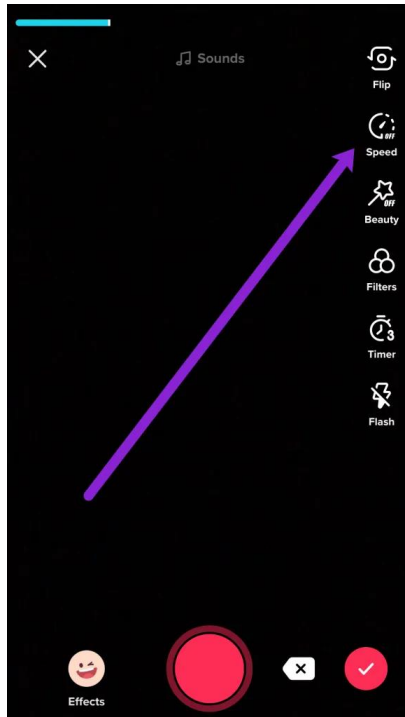

But the question is, "how to slow down a TikTok video?" In this post, we'll show you how to apply slow-motion effects to your TikTok material, as well as how to slow down other people's TikTok videos so you can watch them properly.

How to Create a TikTok Video with Slow-mo Effects

- Launch the TikTok app and hit the + icon in the lower part of the screen to record video content.

- To change the pace of your video, tap the Speed icon in the upper right-hand corner of the app.

- Tap to select a new video speed from the options at the bottom of your screen. There are two options for slowing down the video, 0.3x speed, and 0.5x speed. You may also increase the speed by two or three times, depending on how slow or fast you want your video to be.

- After you've reduced the speed, tap the red circle to start recording your video. When you're finished, the video will play once at normal speed and then again at a slower speed.
- When you're finished recording, tap the red checkmark.
- Before posting your video to TikTok, you can add any extra effects you want to make it look more attractive.

Can I also slow Down Previously Posted TikTok content?

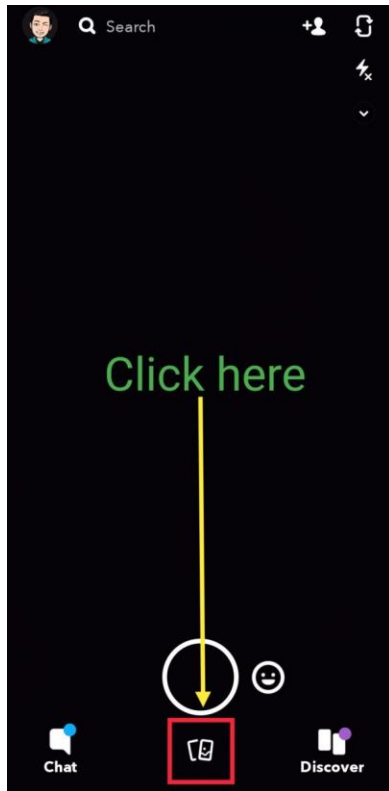

Yes, you can definitely slow down previously posted TikTok content by following these steps:

- Save your preferred video to your device and then re-upload it to TikTok.
- Choose the Speed icon in the upper right-hand corner of the screen to either 0.3x or 0.5, depending on how slow you want your video to be.
